Improving and modernizing Wikimedia's technical ecosystem to respond to a landscape where artificial intelligence is creating content, rich media dominates learning, and the tools people use to collaborate work easily across a multitude of devices and require minimal technical capabilities. As the Foundation works to improve the performance and accessibility of Wikimedia's technical ecosystem, the Community Insights survey tracks changes in developer and contributor satisfaction with that ecosystem.

The 2015 Community Wishlist Survey is over, and now the Community Tech team's work begins on the top 10 features and fixes.

In November and December 2015, we invited contributors from all Wikimedia projects to submit proposals for what they would like the Community Tech team to work on for the purpose of improving or producing curation and moderation tools for active contributors.

634 people participated in the survey, where they proposed, discussed and voted on 107 ideas. There was a two-week period in November to submit and endorse proposals, followed by two weeks of voting. The top 10 proposals with the most support votes now become the Community Tech team's backlog of projects to evaluate and address.

What follows is a list of the pages on the English Wikipedia from which there are the most interwiki-links, and the number of links. Below it are lists for the largest versions of Wikipedia, the pages on the English Wikipedia from which there are the most interlanguage links but no link to that language version. These might constitute some kind of 'missing pages' for these Wikipedias, or just pages that are not linked to. All lists have 100 pages (somewhat more because pages with the same number of links as the number 100 have been included). To avoid boring lists basically saying "this wikipedia has no <type> pages", a few easy-to-spot categories have been restricted in their number:

at most 10 year pages, where decades and centuries are included in the count as well

at most 5 dates

at most 10 numbers

at most 10 internet TLDs

If you are interested in a longer list for your language or a list for a language not shown here, you can ask me. - Andre Engels
